Trudeau, McGuinty showdown?

Ready for battle.

Bring it on, says former prime minister's son

Liberal leadership hopeful Justin Trudeau says he would welcome the entrance of Ontario Premier Dalton McGuinty into the race to lead the federal party.

The perceived front-runner said on Tuesday in Halifax that he didn't want to speculate on McGuinty's plans, one day after the Ontario leader announced his resignation.

Trudeau says McGuinty has served his province and country well and would add to what he insisted will be "a strong and robust leadership race."

Trudeau, who addressed students at a packed high school auditorium, says he hasn't spoken to McGuinty but added that there will be strong candidates running even if he decides not to enter the race.

McGuinty, who was first elected premier in 2003, has left the door open to the leadership bid and sources say a campaign road map has already been sketched out.

A movement to draft McGuinty has been fuelled by a sense that the race needs a heavyweight contender to challenge Trudeau, the eldest son of former prime minister and Liberal icon Pierre Trudeau.

McGuinty controls the message by proroguing: Prof

Deja vu? Proroguing is no more popular than when Harper did it in 2009, but serves the same purpose

 ALEX BOUTILIER
alex.boutilier@metronews.ca

Closing Queen's Park gives the provincial Liberals a chance to regain control of the message, according to an expert on parliamentary governance.

Dr. Lori Turnbull, a political science professor at Dalhousie University who also co-authored a book on prorogation and constitutional reform, said Dalton McGuinty's decision to prorogue the legislature speaks to the government's ability to control the message.

Rather than step down as premier and have the party select an interim leader, McGuinty promised to stay on until a leadership convention is called at the "earliest possible opportunity."

"If there was an interim leader appointed, well, then today we'd be back at the House and we'd be dealing with the same issues, just a different guy," said Turnbull on Tuesday.

"Whereas now, nobody is talking about the issues we were talking about yesterday. Now the big issue is why McGuinty resigned, whether he's going to run against Trudeau (for leadership)."

McGuinty announced late Monday evening he would prorogue parliament and ask the party to select a new leader. That means all bills and committees from this short session — such as the committee investigating Energy Minister Chris Bentley for withholding documents on cancelled power plants — die on the vine.

"It's a purging of what the House has been doing," Turnbull said.

"Taxpayer dollars went to all that work, and now it's flushed down the toilet."

Errol Mendes, a professor of law at the University of Ottawa, drew parallels to Prime Minister Stephen Harper's decision to prorogue the House of Commons in 2009 amid the Afghan detainee controversy and the threat of a non-confidence vote.

"Harper did the same thing," Mendes said. "I think it's about time both at the federal level and the provincial level for clear rules (about) when these type of actions can and cannot be done."

Prime Minister Stephen Harper, right, and Ontario Premier Dalton McGuinty shake hands after a news conference in Toronto in 2009. McGuinty's decision to prorogue the Ontario legislature leads one professor to draw comparisons to Harper's decision to prorogue parliament in 2009. DARREN CALABRESE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Naqvi to mull possible leadership bid with family

Yasir Naqvi GRAHAM LANKTREE/METRO

Yasir Naqvi is doing more than "not ruling out" a bid for the leadership of the provincial Liberals.

The Ottawa Centre MPP and Ontario Liberal Party president said he looks forward to discussing throwing his name in the ring with his family — as soon as he has a chance to actually see them.

"I've not even gone home yet to connect with my family, so obviously I'm looking forward to that opportunity," Naqvi said Tuesday.

"You never say never in life, and it is a very exciting time in our party. Right now there's great opportunity for renewal."

"Renewal" seems to be the watchword for provincial and federal Liberals of late. It was used a number of times by outgoing Premier Dalton McGuinty, who announced Monday night that he'll be stepping down as leader just as soon as the party selects another. There is no timeline set for the selection of a new leader as of yet, Naqvi said. Normally, the party is required to select a new leader within six months, but because McGuinty remains leader, that doesn't come into effect.

If he runs, Naqvi said he will recuse himself from his role as party president.

Speculation abounds as to who else will put in a bid for the leadership. Finance Minister Dwight Duncan's name has been mentioned, as has embattled Energy Minister Chris Bentley. Ministers Eric Hoskins (Youth Services), Deb Matthews (Health), Glen Murray (College and Universities), Charles Sousa (Immigration), and Kathleen Wynne (Municipal Affairs) are also rumoured candidates.

Demonstration. Mothers, babies to protest for full inquiry into jail birth

Mothers, babies and supporters of Julie Bilotta, who gave birth in the Ottawa Regional Detention Centre in September, will demonstrate outside the office of the minister responsible for Ontario jails.

"Bilotta is just the tip of the iceberg," said Dawn Moore, an organizer of the march outside the office of Madeleine Meilleur, Ontario's minister of community safety and correctional services. Meilleur's ministry is already conducting an internal investigation, but Moore says there should be a full public inquiry. "We want her to broaden the scope of the investigation. A jury heard Tuesday an accused killer describe in a police interview video how he struck his roommate with a hammer and sword in their Lowertown apartment and then fled the scene in a taxi.

In the May 5, 2009 interview, Toby Land tells Det. Sean Gordon he had at least eight beers the night he confronted Dominic Doyon about Doyon dating a 15-year-old girl. Land said he did not approve of the age difference between the two.

Land has pleaded not guilty to second-degree murder in the death of Doyon.

Land said Doyon went to grab his sword that he kept in between couches in the apartment. That's when Land grabbed a hammer that was sitting on a nearby table. Then he said he struck Doyon's knee. After hitting Doyon's hands, Land said he grabbed the sword and then stabbed him on his leg and his stomach or chest.

GRAHAM LANKTREE

Canadian laws don't do enough to combat human trafficking. Bloc Québécois MP Maria Mourani said Tuesday as she proposed a new bill to fix what she thinks are gaps in the Criminal Code.

"This bill wants to give more effective tools to police and the prosecution," Mourani, Bloc justice and public safety critic, said of Bill C-452.

A criminologist specializing in Montreal street gangs, Mourani said gangs are becoming more involved in juvenile prostitution and human trafficking because it's better business than drugs.

"Pimps in street gangs say if they want a woman, they order one like a pizza; they just have to beat her. You can make huge money. A pretty girl can make you $250,000 a year," she said.

All too often human traffickers escape with light sentences, serving time concurrently for similar crimes, Mourani said. The bill would make those sentences consecutive. It would also allow for money gained during the crime to be seized.

The bill also aims to reverse

Per year
1,200

The RCMP pegs the number of people trafficked in and through Canada every year at 800 to 1,200. As of February, there were 50 ongoing trafficking cases being prosecuted in Canada and 158 victims.

the burden of proof in human-trafficking cases since victims often don't want to come forward to testify, she said.

"This kind of exception is not usual in the code. Accused traffickers will have to explain how they are not exploiting others to make a living when they are found with a victim of trafficking."

Yet the main elements of the bill seem unnecessary, said Doug Baum, a lawyer and past president of the Defence Counsel Association of Ottawa. "There's a whole section of the Criminal Code that deals with the seizure of the proceeds of crime," he said. "If you get pulled over with $1,000, the police can actually bring an application to seize that money if you can't explain where it came from."

There are very few instances in criminal law where the burden of proof is reversed, he said. "It falls under the general attitude of 'If you have nothing to hide, you don't mind me searching your car,'" he said. "I wouldn't agree to that."

Hormonal Breakouts? Not Just a Teenage Problem!

Hormonal breakouts, such as acne that is marked by pimples, whiteheads, blackheads and cysts affect many teenagers today. But teenagers are not the only ones; acne can strike adults too - more than half of all adult women and about a quarter of adult men.

As the largest organ in the body, the skin is one of the best indicators of how healthy we are on the inside. Acne can have many underlying causes including: poor digestion and dietary intake (vitamin and mineral deficiencies), food allergies, hormonal imbalances, and stress.

Many women will typically see hormonal breakouts during their menstrual cycle due to hormonal fluctuations. Estrogen dominance due to hormone replacement therapy, the birth control pill, xenoestrogens from the environment (BPA, phthalates, parabens) or a sluggish liver can also contribute to hormonal breakouts.

EstroSense is a unique natural formula that helps maintain healthy hormone balance by supporting the liver and in turn, healthy skin. It combines key ingredients such as calcium-d-glucarate, indole-3-carbinol, sulforaphane, milk thistle and DIM for promoting liver detoxification of "bad" estrogens and excretion of harmful xenoestrogens. EstroSense also provides Turmeric, Lycopene, Rosemary and Green tea for powerful antioxidant support.

All of the above ingredients can be found in EstroSense, an excellent product for balancing hormones and providing liver support for naturally healthy skin from the inside out!

So much easier being a girl... Like most people, I too, struggle with acne... One problem I have particularly struggled with has been my jaw line and back... That's when EstroSense entered my life and changed it for the better... After the first 3 months, my back and jaw breakouts have diminished significantly. On top of it, virtually all my PMS symptoms have almost disappeared... it's so much easier being a girl now. Beauty Blogger Ellie S.

Conservatives take 'your body, your choice' philosophy; see big money in legalization

It's not all hippies backing November's marijuana legalization votes in Colorado, Oregon and Washington.

Appealing to Western individualism and a mistrust of federal government, activists have lined up some prominent conservatives, from one-time presidential hopefuls Tom Tancredo and Ron Paul to Republican-turned-Libertarian presidential candidate and former New Mexico Gov. Gary Johnson.

Springs, which has more Republicans than anywhere else in the state.

"It's fiscally prudent. It would be taxed, regulated, monitored. It makes a lot of sense to Republicans," he said.

Most Republicans still oppose legalization, including presidential candidate Mitt Romney and running mate Paul Ryan.

When activists make their appeal, it goes like this: States should dictate drug law. Decades of federal prohibition have failed where personal responsibility and old-fashioned parenting will succeed. Politicians back East have no business dictating what the states do.

"What is the law against marijuana if it isn't the Nanny State telling you what you can do and what you can't do to your body and with your body?" asked Tancredo, a former Republican congressman from suburban Denver who briefly ran for president in 2008. He compared federal law to New York City's ban on sugary sodas. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS rumours have run rampant for weeks.

Police on Monday released 21 names of men who were issued summons for engaging in prostitution with Alexis Wright, a 29-year-old Zumba instructor who's charged with turning her dance studio into a brothel in the seaside community of 10,000 and secretly videotaping her encounters.

Police said she kept detailed records suggesting the sex acts generated $150,000 over 18 months.

Wright, from nearby Wells, has pleaded not guilty to 106 counts of prostitution, invasion of privacy and other charges.

In town, residents heard the list of accused johns could include lawyers, law enforcement officers and well-known people, heightening their curiosity. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Suspected Todd tormentor was a false tip: B.C. RCMP

Amanda Todd suicide. Anonymous allegation 'unfounded,' police say, even though accused user has history of blackmail, perversion

JESSICA SMITH
Metro in Toronto

Allegations by an online hacker group that identified a Vancouver-area man as the tormenter of B.C. teen Amanda Todd were "unfounded," according to police.

Todd, 15, committed suicide last week after suffering years of bullying and online sexual exploitation. In September the teen had posted a video on YouTube in which she described how she showed her breasts to an unknown man over a webcam. She said the man then threatened to send the pictures to friends and family unless she "put on a show" for him.

Although police said Tuesday that the claims by Anonymous were false, the web handle cited in the hacker group's posting has a disturbing Internet history with links to the same kind of online exploitation to which Todd was a victim.

In 2010, the username had been nominated as "blackmailer of the year" in the online Capper Awards, which celebrate a perverted subculture in which people, called cappers, get young girls they call "cam whores" to expose themselves on webcams.

The username was nominated for allegedly blackmailing a different girl, identified as "Peyton." Other awards went to the "cam whore of the year" and "Capper of the year."

In the video on YouTube, a mechanized voice of the cartoon host of the 2010 Capper Awards nominations announces the "Blackmail" category. "This one is for the rapist of the Internet," it says.

"(The user), famous for his blackmail of Peyton, streaming her videos on BlogTV and TinyChat and threatening her in public," says the host.

An earlier video called "The Daily Capper" shows a mock news account of the accused blackmailer streaming the explicit videos of Peyton in December 2010.

"The first part shows Peyton in bra and the second in panties," says a cartoon reporter.

The details get more explicit.

"We return to a second room only to find a fuming Peyton demanding to know who had played videos, and threatening to call the police," the reporter says.

The fake news report says the girl told her mother and police, but it is unclear whether her alleged blackmailer was ever found.

The Capper Awards videos remained active on YouTube as of press time, except for one that was removed after a link to it was posted on an Amanda Todd memorial Facebook page.

Anonymous also published a link to a page on jailbaitgallery.com that shows pornographic photos of young girls with a title including the same online handle.

Thrown off course

False Internet tips impeding inquiry: Police

B.C. RCMP officers investigating the exploitation and suicide of Amanda Todd say they are being thrown off course by false tips and rumours circulating on the Internet. Sgt. Peter Thiessen said the tip from hacker group Anonymous implicating a B.C. Internet user is unfounded.

The rumour that someone released Amanda Todd's autopsy photos online was debunked by the B.C. Coroner's Service, police said. In that case, Anonymous was also said to have found the perpetrator online.

Fraudulent websites that claim to be fundraising for the Todd family have also popped up, said Thiessen.

He said there is only one real account set up by the Todd family — the RBC Amanda Todd Trust Account.

Ex-Bosnian Serb leader Karadzic denies war crimes

Genocide. 'I should be rewarded for all the good things I have done,' he claims at UN tribunal

Former Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic cast himself as a "mild man, a tolerant man" as he opened his defence Tuesday in his long-running genocide trial, claiming he tried to prevent fighting and then worked to reduce casualties in the bloody 1992-95 Bosnian war.

His claims brought snorts of derision and cries of "He's lying! He's lying!" from some Muslim survivors of the war who were watching the trial from the public gallery at the UN tribunal.

Karadzic, 67, who faces charges including genocide and crimes against humanity, was given 90 minutes to make a statement on his role in the war that left an estimated 100,000 dead. The statement was not made under oath, meaning Karadzic could not be cross-examined by prosecutors.

In another of the tribunal's courtrooms, Goran Hadzic, a former leader of rebel Serbs in Croatia, became the last of the tribunal's 161 indicted suspects to face justice as his trial got underway. He was arrested last year in northern Serbia after more than seven years on the run and pleaded not guilty to charges of murdering hundreds of Croats and expelling tens of thousands more.

Karadzic, a former psychologist and poet, told judges he was a "physician and literary man" who was a reluctant player in the violent breakup of Yugoslavia. He said before the war many of his friends, including his hairdresser, were Muslims.

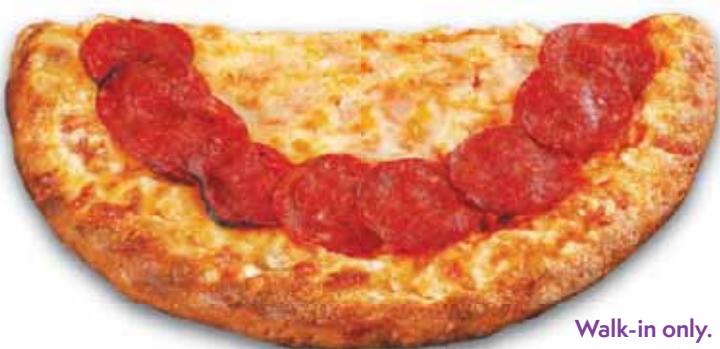

Prosecutors have painted a starkly different picture of Karadzic during months of witness testimony, portraying him as a political leader who masterminded Serb atrocities throughout the war, from campaigns of persecution and murders of Muslims and Croats early in 1992 to the conflict's bloody climax, the 1995 massacre of some 8,000 Muslim men and boys in the UN-protected Srebrenica enclave.

Medical scandal. Minister determined to recover taxpayer money

A Winnipeg doctor who had sex with two female patients and improperly wrote them OxyContin prescriptions has been suspended.

And now Manitoba's health minister said an investigation has been launched to recover any taxpayer money that may have gone toward inappropriate billing.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Manitoba held an inquiry on the behaviour of Dr. Randy Raymond Allan, where he pleaded guilty to professional misconduct.

The college has suspended Allan for 18 months, though he hasn't been practising at his clinic since the allegations arose.

According to the inquiry panel, Allan "failed to maintain appropriate boundaries with two female patients ... that he had personal and sexual relationships with them during the same periods that he was providing medical care to them."

Dr. Allan also "issued prescriptions for OxyContin to both patients ... because of his personal and sexual relationships with them."

The panel said Dr. Allan didn't create complete medical profiles for both women and in some instances didn't note the prescriptions he wrote in their profiles.

He then billed the Manitoba government for house calls when in actuality he was visiting for sex.

Consequences

- Under Manitoba's Regulated Health Professions Act, complaints and discipline require "a swift turnaround."

- Dr. Allan has already been suspended by the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Peace Arch tragedy.

Victim was still breathing when she was loaded into air ambulance on Tuesday, police said

A female Canadian border guard was shot at one of the busiest crossings in Canada on Tuesday and the gunman died after apparently turning his weapon on himself, RCMP say.

The Douglas border crossing, known better as the Peace Arch crossing — which is just south of Vancouver, was closed in both directions Tuesday afternoon.

"The first report at the scene revealed that a male, a lone male, had shot an officer in her booth," said Cpl. Bert Paquet.

"At the instant following the shooting of the officer, the lone male had been pronounced dead at the scene from what appeared to be a self-inflicted gunshot wound."

Vic Toews, minister of public safety, said in a statement he was deeply concerned at the news.

"This event is a sobering reminder of the dangerous conditions faced daily by the men

A spokeswoman with the Canada Border Services Agency said traffic was being diverted around the crossing.

Autism: 'We know the little boy that's in there'

"Duck."

Mića extends his hand as his therapist, Kristina Dunbar, presents him with a small plastic duck, which promptly joins others in the toy pond at their feet.

It's a simple, one-syllable request. But for Mića, that would not have been possible only a year and a half ago. This kind of therapy — intensive behavioural intervention, or IBI — was how he learned to talk.

Four-year-old Mića Jovanović was diagnosed with severe autism spectrum disorder at the age of three. Before that, he had difficulties with his hearing, which led his family to seek a diagnosis.

"We weren't expecting a severe diagnosis. We were Coming to terms with autism expecting him to be sort of middle of the spectrum," Mića's mother, Anne Rahming, said.

"When (the doctor) explained to us that it was severe, we were bowled over. It was a very quiet drive home."

At the time, Mića was assessed as having the understanding of a six-month-old. He turns five next month, and is now assessed at a three-year-old's level. Rahming credits IBI for his progress.

But the therapy is expensive, and the regional waiting lists for provincial subsidies are long. If Rahming and her family waited the average two years for funding before getting treatment, Mića would have missed the crucial window when IBI is most effective.

So, while waiting for funding, they paid out-of-pocket from March 2011 to August 2012. The bill was $80,000. In August, they ran out of money for Mića's therapy.

In frustration, Rahming turned to the Ministry of Children and Youth Services, which grants IBI funding to regional providers, who in turn deliver it to parents. She also went to the media.

"After I decided to get the minister's office and reporters involved, surprisingly money emerged," she said.

That money — which still doesn't cover the full cost of the therapy — means Mića can remain at the Portia Learning Centre, a private clinic in Kanata.

For Rahming, it's the difference between Mića interacting with the people in his life or living inside his head.

"We know the little boy that's in there," she said.

Diagnosis

What is autism spectrum disorder?

- One in 100 Canadians has autism spectrum disorder (ASD). It is one of the most prevalent developmental disabilities.
- ASD affects development of the brain in the area of social interactions and communication skills.
- The disorder manifests in different ways in a spectrum that runs from mild to severe. Autism Ontario says it can result in repeated body movements, unusual responses to people, attachments to objects or resistance to changes in routine.
- On the severe end, it can also lead to aggressive or self-injurious behaviour.
- Autism Ontario estimates that 100,000 Ontarians have ASD.

Treatment

What is intensive behavioural intervention?

- Intensive behavioural intervention (IBI) is a therapy for children with autism. Its aim is to help them develop a connection to the outside world.
- In one-on-one therapy, or in a small-group setting, children work with therapists to learn words and their use — to ask for things, and to verbally interact with the people and things around them.
- The treatment is typically most effective between the ages of three and five.
- According to the Ontario Ministry of Children and Youth Services, funding for IBI reached $115.8 million in 2011-12.
- Across Ontario, 1,417 children are receiving the therapy, while 1,702 are on the waiting list for funding.

iPhone maker dismisses underage factory interns

China. Labour rights group says Foxconn and vocational schools are both to blame for use of students under 16

The company that manufactures Apple's iPhone said Tuesday it found underage interns as young as 14 working at one of its factories in China.

Foxconn Technology Group said the interns were found by a company investigation at its factory in the eastern city of Yantai and were sent back to their schools. China's minimum legal working age is 16. Foxconn said it was investigating with schools how the interns were sent to its factory. It didn't say how many underage interns it found.

"We recognize that full responsibility for these violations rests with our company and we have apologized to each of the students for our role in this action," Foxconn said in a statement. "Any Foxconn employee found, through our investigation, to be responsible for these violations will have their employment immediately terminated."

A labour rights group, China Labor Watch, said in a statement that primary responsibility lay with schools involved but "Foxconn is also culpable for not confirming the ages of their workers."

The Canadian Museum of Civilization is being rebranded.

Now it's going to be the Canadian Museum of Our Own Backyard. Er, the Canadian Museum of History.

That old mandate: "To increase, throughout Canada and internationally, interest in, knowledge and understanding of and appreciation for human cultural achievements and human behaviour...?"

That's over. It's time to turn our gaze ... inward.

The feds are going to spend $25 million to teach us Canadian history, no doubt because we weren't listening the first time in Grade 8.

Instead of that civilization malarkey, we'll gather all our national clichés in one convenient location: The Last Spike, Maurice Richard's hockey sweater (le pew!), and the gag reel from This Hour Has 22 Minutes. OK, so I made that last one up. But talk about historical significance.

According to the usually informed but anonymous sources, the museum will focus on the Royal Family and the Canadian military.

Tell me this is not all part of the Harper government's ongoing effort to put the 21st century back in the bottle and rewrite Canadian history. We'll know what's really going on if Museum 2.0 has a Preston Manning wing.

The new museum will use the current Museum of Civilization building, a world-class architectural homage to human civilization. Well, it will have to do. It was either that or move it to Winnipeg, where it could take over the newly built Museum of Human Rights. After all, human rights aren't really our business, either. Let the EU or the UN or some other foreign outfit worry about that stuff.

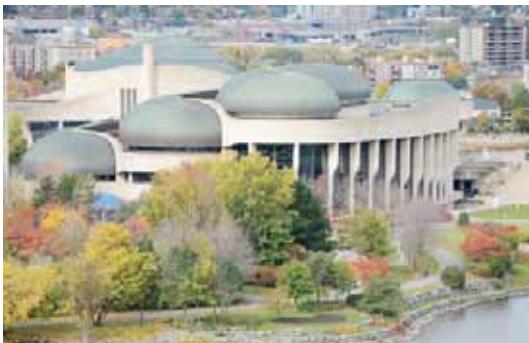

This here's Canada. The Canada of Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Robert Borden, R.B. Bennett, John Diefenbaker, Brian Mulroney and, of course, Stephen Harper. Did I leave anyone out?

Don't get me wrong. I agree with James Moore, minister in charge of Turning Back the Clock, that the world needs more Canada. But we already gave the world Jim Carrey and Neil Young. What more do they want? I know — Celine Dion! We'll give them Celine Dion!

We'll be able to give all these great ideas to the museum, as staff is now travelling across the country, all expenses paid, to find out what we think.

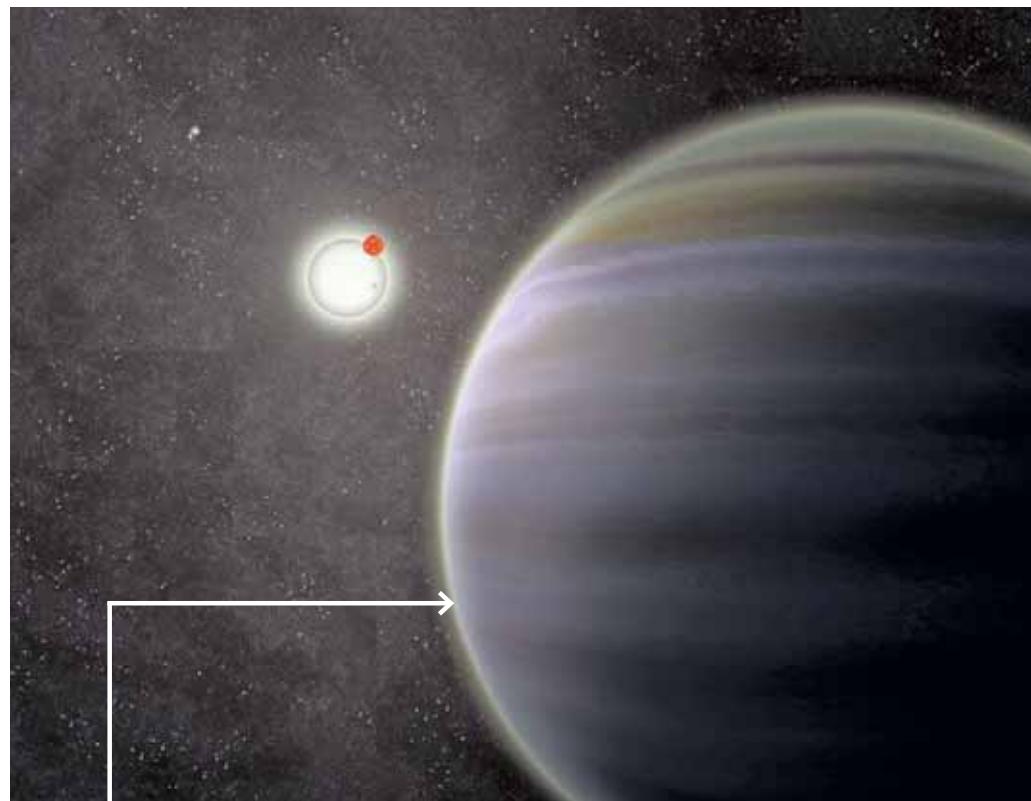

Off the top of my head, I can think of a few more suggestions: the Charter of Rights (too civilized? Too Liberal); the Canadian flag (see previous item); the story of medicare; the National Wheat Board; the National Film Board; the CBC (hmm — there's a pattern emerging here).

Gee, James, maybe this wasn't such a good idea after all.

The Canadian Museum of Civilization, pictured, will be rebranded as the Canadian Museum of History, the feds announced Tuesday.

Tyler Perry stars in Alex Cross. HANDOUT

Meet the newest Alex Cross

Adaptation. Tyler Perry plays the lead in the latest movie based on James Patterson's novels

IN FOCUS

Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

If the name Alex Cross sounds familiar you're either an avid reader of crime novels or a Morgan Freeman fan.

The character is the star of 20 books by author James Patterson, two films starring Freeman and now a third, the simply titled Alex Cross, with Tyler Perry in the lead role.

In the books and films Cross is a Washington D.C. cop with a Ph.D. in psychology. In other words, as he says in Kiss the Girls, "I'm a forensic psychologist. It's a fancy way of saying I'm a guy who walks into a room like that and determines the hows and whys."

In the new film, Perry, best known as the director and star of the Madea comedies, squares off against a serial killer (Matthew Fox) who claims to have murdered one of the detective's relatives.

The first Cross novel to make the leap to the big screen was Kiss the Girls, the second book in the series. Denzel Washington was originally set to star, but dropped out due to scheduling conflicts. Morgan Freeman stepped in, starring opposite Ashley Judd.

In the film Cross's niece disappears, the likely victim of Casanova, a kidnapper and killer of young women. Aiding Cross is Dr. Kate McTiernan (Judd), a surgeon, who narrowly escaped the sadomasochist killer's grasp.

The movie was a hit with audiences, but not the critics, although Roger Ebert wrote that Freeman and Judd, "are so good, you almost wish they'd decided not to make a thriller at all... and had simply found a way to construct a drama exploring their personalities."

The movie was withheld from release in central Virginia out of respect for the families of three girls who had been murdered in the area.

Four years later, despite some reservations, Freeman reprised the role. "I didn't want to do the same thing twice," he said, adding that he changed his mind because he realized he "liked Alex Cross. And the fact that he's black is totally incidental. That's a rare thing for a black actor to find."

Along Came a Spider sees Cross solve the case of a kidnapped congressman's daughter. Once again critics hated the film — which currently sits at 32 per cent on Rotten Tomatoes — but praised Freeman's performance. New York Times scribe Elvis Mitchell called it "a classless, underdeveloped thriller," but wrote that it "couldn't be better served than it is by Mr. Freeman."

Q&A. Ellie Goulding on hit single Lights, sophomore album and dating Skrillex

British singer Ellie Goulding dealt with writer's block when coming up with songs for her sophomore album. That's because she was still dealing with the success of her first album.

Goulding's debut, Lights, was released in February 2010 in Europe and March 2011 in the United States. This year, however, the title track peaked at No. 2 on Billboard's Hot 100 chart and has sold more than 3.3 million units in America. The electro-dance track is one of the year's top songs.

"I still haven't been able to understand, like, why that has happened," the 25-year-old said in a recent interview. "It's crazy. But the definite truth is it's been way more popular here (in the U.S.) than it has anywhere in the world."

Her Lights album has sold about 240,000 units in the U.S., but now she's promoting her sophomore record, Halcyon, which was released this week. She recorded it in "a converted barn in a valley" in England with producer Jim Eliot (Kylie Minogue) to escape the success of Lights.

While her Lights single is on the new album, Goulding has a new single, Anything Could Happen, a new sound — and a somewhat new relationship.

Did you want to capitalize on the success of Lights and do something similar on the new album?

"No, not really. ... If my next song has the same ability to do what Lights has done, then I'll be really proud. But, who knows? Like, I would never want to design music to do what Lights did 'cause that wouldn't have any kind of integrity on my part. ... Most of my favourite music isn't in the charts. Don't get me wrong, I adore pop music so much. I'm not saying I have a thing against chart music. If mine gets on the charts and I sell records, then it's a bonus.

What helped you overcome writer's block?

"I guess I cured it by meeting Jim. Also ... I went through, like, a breakup in a relationship (with radio DJ Greg James) and genuinely, like, that kind of opened the floodgates for me. I felt like there was a lot I needed to write about for a long time. I went away to Ireland by myself and that triggered a lot of the lyrics, a lot of the ideas."

You're dating Skrillex and you've collaborated musically. Do you want to do more of that?

I think in an ideal world we'd love to make a whole record together ... but it just so happens that we're both ridiculously busy. When it comes to music, it honestly is really professional. Honestly. If we start talking about music on the phone, it switches immediately to being professional, and not on purpose, but because we're both so passionate about music and it's a very serious thing to us. But at the same time we've had fun making stuff, and I have fun listening to his new stuff because it blows my mind and it's so clever to me, so fascinating it makes me want to laugh, and I laugh because it's so brilliant.

Father John Misty MAXIMILLA LUKACS

Fear Fun. Musician makes some changes after being on 'autopilot' for a few years

PAT HEALY
Metro World News

Fear Fun is the debut by Father John Misty, but the man behind the moniker, Joshua Tillman, has been putting out albums for the past eight years, recording as a member of Fleet Foxes, Saxon Shore and on his own as J. Tillman. These previous efforts, mostly characterized by their solemnity, bear little resemblance to his recent outpouring of manic psychedelic folk.

"I was obliged to make some changes after some realizations that I had about myself," says Tillman. "I was on autopilot for a few years with the J. Tillman thing."

On Fear Fun, the songs ooze with an exuberance of being born again, but for Father John Misty that doesn't necessarily mean a pious awakening. Against some of the same warm quilts of harmony that make Fleet Foxes sound so comforting, Tillman sings words that are frank and funny and often deal with sex and drugs. If it weren't for this content, you could almost picture him dancing to these funky songs with some groovy monster on The Muppet Show.

His voice is one of confidence and clarity, and against the dark decadence of his lyrics, it blurs the line between reverence and irreverence.

As opposed to the bleak and serious artwork on his solo records, the album art on Fear Fun is deeply hallucinogenic, with liner notes inside that provide commentary and peculiar subtitles for each song.

Tillman says coming up with this part of the al-

Biblical references Nothing is sacred

In addition to the new name with which Father John Misty has ordained himself, Fear Fun teems with references to biblical figures and holy places. But Joshua Tillman says nothing is sacred here.

"Really, it just kind of aligns with my sensibilities of what I think is funny," he says. "I do think music that is popular right now is so inessential, and there is very bum was a cathartic process.

"I was just sick of identifying myself as a songwriter and subsequently like a failure of a songwriter or something," he says. "Around that time, the sound of an acoustic guitar was a cathartic process.

I know that religion is like an antiquated thing, but it still, for whatever reason, really resonates with people, and the subversion of those images resonates. It's not out of devotion, but if I'm going to write from my conversational voice, there's tons of that — rattling around in my brain just from my formative years, and I really get some enjoyment out of subverting conventional wisdom regarding those symbols."

made me nauseous, like I couldn't even deal with it, and so I left Seattle and I just wanted to get back to my humanity. And it's funny because with songwriting, you get so used to pulling ing from certain aspects of your imagination or your emotional quotient. You get so used to farming from these very specific parts of yourself that at some point you start to believe that those are the only parts of yourself that have substance or worth. I was just sort of sick of feeling like a one-dimensional entity in terms of creativity, so I started writing up the book that's in the album and I wasn't beholden to these aesthetic parameters that I was musically. I quickly discovered what I perceived to be far more engaging in that medium, creatively. I was laughing a lot the whole time I was writing."

Heroism comes at a price for Scott Speedman in Last Resort

Interview. Actor discusses his role, the dynamics between characters and the heroism in disobedience

AMBER RAY
Metro World News in New York

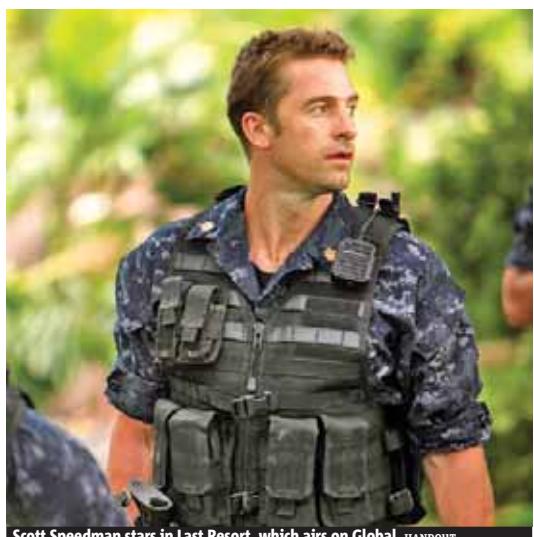

We're pretty sure actor Scott Speedman has the power to broker peace negotiations with a simple glance. Of course, in the role of XO Sam Kendal on Last Resort, it will take more than the 37-year-old's mesmerizing blue eyes to get his submarine crew out of trouble, considering war was triggered when he refused strange orders to bomb Pakistan. The morality and heart Speedman brings to the role will help as he goes toe-to-toe with the commanding Andre Braugher, who plays the captain of the sub. Their relationship is central to the series — just as important as the mystery surrounding the United States' decision to turn on its own. Speedman explains.

What is the dynamic between Sam and Captain Marcus Chaplin (Andre Braugher)?

That's where a lot of the dramatic tension on the show comes from. (The characters) are very close. You find out that Andre's character has really nothing to lose; he really has no family to fall back on, so he's making all these gambles. Meanwhile, I'm relatively young and have a wife waiting for me at home. It's been really fun to play with that and to deal with that male bonding relationship and tearing that up.

We've already seen the U.S. attacking the submarine, the crew turning on each other, and a militia on the island prepared to fight the sailors seeking safety there. Who is the biggest enemy?

For Sam specifically, ultimately, the most interesting enemy I can have is the captain. The more generic choices are there but the more interesting rival will be Marcus Chaplin, the father figure, the mentor. But you have the Navy SEALs (who boarded the submarine and seem to have their own agenda); you have Robert Patrick's character (the sub's uncooperative Master Chief Joseph Prosser), which is an interesting character to play off of. I much prefer when (the crew is working) as a unit as opposed to using some of the (supporting characters) as enemies.

What is Sam's biggest motivation right now?

A big thrust of the show is my character trying to get home. But really, Sam wants to stay alive long enough to clear his name. He's spent all this time getting to where he is in his life and it's all being ripped away from him. He wants to get home to be with his wife but he's also really intent on clearing his name.

Is there heroism in disobedience?

Of course, I love that aspect of the show. That's really what drew me to the character. He's not just this hero-type guy; even when facing a tough decision, no matter what the consequences, he's still going to try to do the right thing. These guys, they spend 10 years getting orders and following them. They're preparing for this moment — that's what they do in the nuclear submarine — then the order comes and they don't do it. It was an interesting moment to play, for sure."

The Word

Depp to launch eccentric yet dashing book imprint

THE WORD

Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Celebrities are constantly launching perfumes and clothing lines. But Johnny Depp is not just any old actor. He's Johnny Depp! He's gotta do things differently! So what is the famed actor's new vanity project? Why, he's going to publish books!

According to a statement by Harper Collins, Depp is launching an imprint with the book publisher called Infinitum Nihil (translation: "nothing lasts forever"). Per the statement, Depp says, "I pledge, on behalf of Infinitum Nihil, that we will do our best to deliver publications worthy of peoples' time, of peoples' concern, publications that might ordinarily never have breached the parapet."

The imprint has already announced one book: The Untravelled Tales of Bob Dylan by the historian Douglas Brinkley, which is set for publication in 2015.

Interesting way to inject some glamour into the rather staid world of book publishing. And, hey, unlike the rest of us involved in the media world, it's not like he has to worry about the scant paycheck.

But does anyone else get the mental image of Depp editing books while dressed like a pirate and using a quill pen?

Amanda Bynes is facing charges from her driving record.

Jennie Garth's efforts to reach out to Bynes all in vain

It seems everyone is worried about troubled starlet Amanda Bynes these days, including former What I Like About You co-star Jennie Garth. "I tried reaching out to her and I haven't been able to reach her," Garth tells Us Weekly. "My heart feels for whatever she is going through and I love her dearly."

Garth isn't alone in feeling disconnected, as Bynes' parents have reportedly been getting the cold shoulder from the actress, who is facing multiple charges stemming from her dangerous driving record.

Barack Obama gives his take on the American Idol judges' cat fight.

Obama offers his two cents in Carey/Minaj feud

As he continues his campaign for re-election, U.S. President Barack Obama is addressing all of the top pressing issues — including the feud between American Idol judges Mariah Carey and Nicki Minaj. "I think that they are going to be able to sort it out, I am confident," Obama said during an interview with Miami's Y100 radio station. "I'm all about bringing people together, working for the same cause. I think both outstanding artists are going to be able to make sure that they're moving forward and not going backwards."

There is always time for tapas in Spain's capital city

Madrid. This destination offers everything from traditional fare in centuries-old buildings to the latest in innovative cuisine

VAWN
life@metronews.ca

Madrid has a tempo; it's a city that lives by and for art. It's also a city where food has been elevated to an art form. Take your pick of gastronomic delights at one of the city's centuries-old restaurants, traditional tapas bars, trendy gastrobars or gourmet markets. Here's a guide to eating your way around Madrid:

Markets

Mercado de San Miguel: Built in 1916, this market has become a meeting place for foodies. You'll find everything from salted fish at Casa del Bacalao to European meats at La Boucheerie. At sundown, the market turns into a hotspot for tapas, which can be washed down with a glass of Spanish red at one of its wine houses.

Mercado de San Anton and La Cocina: This new gourmet market was designed for foodies — with 14 food stalls on the first floor, and show-cooking stations and a bar for casual meals on the second floor. Head to the third floor's terrace restaurant, La Cocina, where you'll find dishes inspired by traditional Spanish cuisine. Here, sample some of the best bellota ham, aged for five years — from pigs fed a diet of acorns and aromatic herbs.

Tapas

While in Madrid, do like the locals and tapear (go for tapas) — order calamari, cod and tripe. This time-honoured tradition still stands, whether in a traditional tavern or trendy bar, where small plates of food are served with a glass of beer or wine. Some of the best traditional taverns can be found in the oldest parts of the capital, including La Latina, Cava Baja, Cava Alta and Cava de San Miguel.

Gastrobars

Head to Estado Puro, one of the city's trendiest gastrobars, where the bar is covered with transparent panels encasing flamenco dolls. The food is a contemporary twist on traditional Spanish fare — try a deconstructed tortilla in a shot glass, or foie gras served like an ice cream sandwich.

Traditional with a twist

La Capilla de la Bolsa: In Madrid's Literary Quarter was once, in the Middle Ages, the Chapel of Santa Cruz, and later became home to the Madrid Stock Exchange. The restaurant has maintained the building's Baroque vault and original columns, allowing you to soak up hundreds of years of art history as you eat Mediterranean haute cuisine.

Where to stay

The boutique Hotel de las Letras combines tradition with modern flair. Built in 1917, this newly renovated, modern space has retained its mosaics, marquises, staircases and original sculptures, and each room features high ceilings, oak flooring and natural light. It's located in the Gran Via shopping district, at the heart of the city's Art Walk.

revival. Vibrant pocket of New Orleans is enjoying a surge in interest with HBO series of the same name

The colourful and musical New Orleans neighbourhood called Treme is marking the 200th anniversary of its origins as an early melting pot for the city and the U.S.

Treme is considered one of America's most unusual neighbourhoods and holds significant place in the history of jazz. It is also getting some new energy thanks in part to the spotlight provided by the HBO series Treme.

"All the things sacred to New Orleans bubbled up from that neighbourhood, because Treme had such a mixture of people and cultures," said Toni

Rice, a spokeswoman for one of the neighbourhood groups organizing its bicentennial celebration. "It wasn't just slaves. It wasn't all white or all black. It was German, Spanish, Haitian, Italian."

Born from the immigration that followed the Haitian revolution of the early 1800s and named for French milliner and property owner Claude Treme, the neighbourhood became an entertainment centre where white and black Creoles gathered. The wave of Haitian refugees added to a New Orleans that was already a mix of French, Spanish and African-American culture, with American influence filtering in after the 1803 purchase of the territory from France. New Orleans was still largely confined to the French Quarter — the original city founded in 1718. Treme and other outlying neighbourhoods were farms or swamps until efforts to drain the land took hold as the population grew.

It's the site of St. Augustine, one of the oldest African-American Catholic church parishes in the nation, where Homer Plessy was a parishioner. In 1892, Plessy triggered the infamous U.S. Supreme Court case, Plessy v. Ferguson, which upheld the constitutionality of state laws requiring racial segregation in public facilities under the doctrine of "separate but equal."

It's also the site of Congo Square, where during the 18th and 19th centuries slaves were permitted to dance, trade goods and play music that would evolve into jazz. Generations of musicians hail from Treme, among them Troy "Trombone Shorty" Andrews and his grandfather, the late Ooh Poo Pah

Doo singer Jesse Hill.

It was also home to the recently deceased Lionel Batiste — the vocalist, drummer and assistant leader of the Treme Brass Band who was known simply as "Uncle Lionel." And it was the birthplace of jazz singer and trumpeter Lionel Ferbos, who at 101 is believed to be the oldest working musician in the city. He performs regularly at the Palm Court Jazz Cafe in the French Quarter.

Percussionist Shannon Powell, 50, has lived in Treme his entire life. It's where at age 11 he performed Bourbon Street Parade at a now-closed jazz club near his house and where as a teenager he was discovered by singing banjo and guitar player Danny Barker, who helped launch Powell's career.

tion plan, which could include the removal of the interstate highway. Work is under way to turn an unused rail corridor into a miles-long walking and bike path.

"This neighbourhood is an example of survival," said Wayne Baquet, who operates Lil Dizzy's restaurant. "The city lost a big part of the middle class due to white flight and then black flight to newer neighbourhoods like New Orleans east and Gentilly."

"After Katrina, which practically destroyed those two areas, Treme is coming back," he said.

RIDEAU CENTRE

New Orleans, for the ladies

Good times. Women, are you ready to live The Hangover?

ALISON BOWEN
Metro World News

New Orleans has been a staple of bachelor parties for decades, but these days the ladies are taking over the city. An annual conference, Festigals, drew 400 people this summer for a women-only celebration. One of the premier hotels, the Windsor Court Hotel, boasts a female chef and female sommelier, together crafting elegant-tasting menus. And a walking tour of the French Quarter — led by a feisty 79-year-old female — drops in tales of women influencing the city. So what better place for a girls' getaway?

Stay out all night

Make sure to walk along Bourbon Street — even without Mardi Gras, it's a circus all its own. But locals will tip you toward Frenchmen Street, a chance to dart in and out of bars where local bands play all night long. This weekend, you could catch the Crescent City Blues and BBQ Festival. Top off any night with a visit to Cafe du Monde, open 24 hours a day, for the city's famous beignets and rich chicory coffee.

Eat your way through the city

Leave the diet books at home. The waiters at legendary Arnaud's Restaurant on Bourbon Street may tell you the meals are zero calories, but that's not true — and you'll be robbing yourself of the city's best pleasures if you don't eat your way through New Orleans. The city's cuisine is incomparable — succulent shrimp often delivered straight from the Gulf, the spices are thrown together in a way New England just can't muster, and, well, what other place constantly lights its desserts on fire? The Court of Two Sisters in the French Quarter has a daily jazz brunch, with a live band in the courtyard and a shrimp-and-grits filled buffet.

Grab your shopping shoes

Explore the unique boutiques of Magazine Street, a lengthy but doable walk or a quick cab ride from the French Quarter. Places like Buffalo Exchange offer consignment-store finds, like party dresses or a floral TopShop blouse or a boom box. If your shopping can escalate to extravagant — or for a peek — stop in at M.S. Rau Antiques, where pieces range from a Russian fossilized cave bear to Monets and a vampire killing kit.

Where to stay

The Hotel Monteleone, legend says, is where the French Quarter begins. The hotel, opened by a Sicilian shoemaker more than a century ago, has hosted luminaries from Tennessee Williams to Paul Newman and Liberace. Within walking distance from delicious brunch spots and the invigorating, music-filled Frenchmen Street, the hotel is an elegant place to retire.

Secrets for booking the perfect vacation

Already dreaming about a sunny beach vacation? If so, how do you pick a resort? When should you book?

Dianne Jackson, senior director of sales and marketing for Mississauga, Ont.-based iTravel2000.com, shares her insider secrets on booking a warm and wonderful trip.

KNOW WHAT YOU WANT

With so many resorts and countries available in which to travel, you need to figure out what kind of trip you are after — relaxing or active for example? "Visualize what you're doing on vacation," Jackson said. "Are you having an eating experience? A family experience? These are the things to discuss with a travel agent and then match it up to a property."

WHEN TO BUY

Ever had that guy brag behind you in line about how he scored your trip for $1,000 less than you paid? With booking a trip south, it's tough to figure out whether you should book ahead or opt for a last-minute deal. "If you have a set vacation time such as March break or Christmas, book now because otherwise you'll be left out in the cold," Jackson said. "But if you're flexible with dates, we have suggestions on our site as to when are the more economical times to travel. For example, you can get a fabulous five-star resort in the second week in January because everyone's just back from vacation. And so you can take advantage of those great rates at that time."

Also, Jackson notes you can buy many of the add-on local excursions through your travel agent, which can help keep you within your budget.

SCORE SOME INSURANCE

"People spend $40 on a warranty for their $100 piece of technology, and then for their family vacation they'll spend $3,000 to $5,000 and say no, I don't need coverage for it," Jackson said. "It is a financial investment like anything else and so you should cover your investment."

WHAT TO PACK?

Aside from swimsuits and sun block, Jackson suggests tossing insect repellent into your suitcase, as well as a first aid kit — it saves you from having to spend $10 on a package of 20 Band-Aids after you scraped yourself poolside.

Close to home. Six winter destinations for you to check out

ASTRID

Forget the beach — you are a snow bunny. If so, here are six places in Ontario worth checking out come winter-time.

COLLINGWOOD

Located about 1½ hours drive from Toronto, this is one of Ontario's prime ski regions. "And along with the ski and snowboard mountains, Collingwood has a 'village' concept," said Grace Sammut, managing director for Orillia, Ont.-based Resorts Ontario. "They have diverse accommodations, restaurants and coffee shops and the views are spectacular from the ski hills."

NIAGARA FALLS

Complete with icicles climbing its cliffs, Canada's Horseshoe Falls is quite another sight to see in the middle of winter. "There are lovely inns there such as the Pillar and Post, or the Americana Niagara Falls hotel, which also has an indoor water park," Sammut said.

OTTAWA

Canada's capital city embraces winter with its annual Winterlude festival held every February. Visitors can check out the intricately carved ice sculptures, play on the snow playground or skate on the Rideau Canal, also known as the world's largest skating rink.

KAWARTHAS LAKES REGION

This area of the province is home to some of the more small to medium-type resort accommodations. "The Irwin Inn on Stoney Lake is one of them," Sammut said. "Its accommodations are log-style but they also have traditional ones as well. While you could cross-country ski or snowmobile in this area, if it gets too chilly you could head over to the Whetung Ojibwa Centre art gallery."

MUSKOKA

"Muskoka shines in the winter. There are many charming, smaller resort lodges open for winter," Sammut said. "Deerhurst Resort is definitely one of them — it's a well-rounded property with lots to do and they're right next door to Hidden Valley."

ALGONQUIN

While the 7,630-square-kilometre Algonquin Provincial Park is the place to enjoy many winter activities — from cross-country skiing to winter camping — Sammut suggests checking out the Algonquin Cottage Outpost found on Kawawaymog Lake. "They are open year round but winter is a very unique and special experience there," Sammut said.

"It's tiny — I think they only take less than 10 people — the food is home-cooked and it's the quintessential Canadiana property. And they do amazing winter experiences including snowshoeing and dog sledding."

Becoming master of the midterm

Study these secrets.

Translating, talking and tracking down a nest all part of the perfect test strategy

TalentEgg.ca

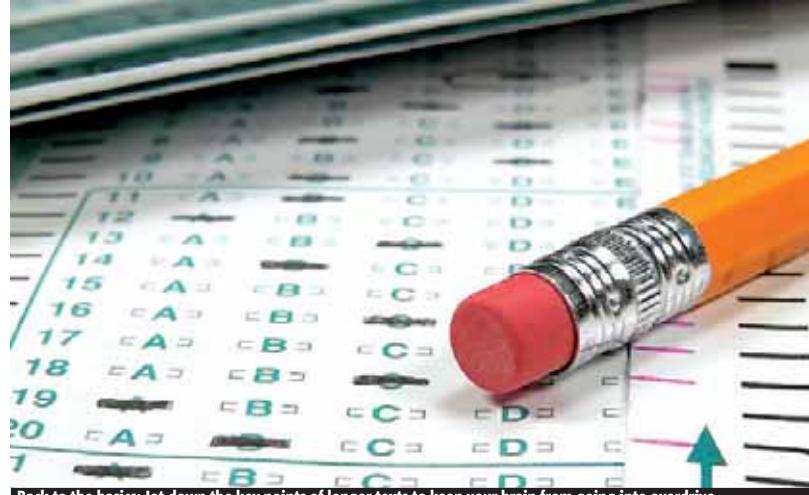

Studying can be tough — especially if you have multiple tests, exams or midterms to study for at once.

It's easy to fall asleep with your textbook on your face, or focus more on perfecting that homemade apple crisp than perfecting your math formulas.

Everyone has their own best practices when it comes to studying, so we asked around to find some common strategies for success when it comes to burying yourself in your books.

Find your study spot

The first step to successful studying is finding a spot that is study-specific and has limited distractions. You might even want to disconnect your WiFi and put your phone on

Back to the basics: Jot down the key points of longer texts to keep your brain from going into overdrive. iSTOCK airplane mode for an hour or two. Crazy, I know, but it will help you stay focused.

Review the main concepts

Reading through your notes and refreshing your memory on major concepts will make filling in the details later on that much easier. There's no sense in memorizing the dates of John Cabot's discoveries if you can't even recall what he did.

Change up the lingo

Reviewing concepts by using everyday language ensures you understand it. Furthermore, doing this helps you remember things more easily.

For example, if your philosophy textbook reads, "Relativism is the concept that points of view have no absolute truth or validity, having only relative, subjective value according to differences in perception and consideration," an easier way of saying this might be "Relativism means that your point of view is only your personal perception, and has no absolute truth or validity."

Speak out loud

Calling Helgason, a second-

when the roommates walked in, but the good grades made up for my rosy cheeks.

That being said, be aware of your surroundings. This might not fly too well in the quiet section of the library, but on your porch it's A-OK.

Rewrite your notes

Sandy Silveira, a student in the early childhood education program at Ryerson University, says when she studies she likes to write things out as well as saying them because it helps her remember them better.

Julie Dang, a Mathematical Science student at Western University, echoes this idea by stating that her strategy is to flip back through her textbooks and focus on everything that she highlighted when she initially did her readings. Then she writes out all the terminology and various formulas. "I do study questions over and over again," Julie says.

"I review my notes, and then I do more questions. Constantly practicing the formulas is the best way to remember them."

'My life has only just begun'

Jake Choi
Graduate
Bachelor of Arts in Economics/Business

TalentEgg.ca

I've completed four co-op work terms, including positions in financial analysis, project management, and real estate industries assessment. I've been applying to jobs on the University of Waterloo's campus recruitment website (JobMine) as well as reaching out to people that I know and applying online.

It has been very frustrating because I have not received any interviews using online applications, and received only a few using JobMine for graduate positions. Even so, I have a tough time beating the competition as most students are either better at interviews or have more relevant experiences.

I returned to one of the employers for my co-operative work term, but I'm planning to transfer into the industry that I want to be in which is banking and finance. I've been discouraged so many times through countless rejection emails and I've lost hope. But in the end, I realized that my life has only just begun! I don't expect this process to be easy to be resolved, I will be relentless until I find the dream job I desire.

I am actively seeking open job opportunities. At the same time, I am putting more effort into contacting previous managers to seek personal recommendations which will increase my chances.

Where I am now

I just finished up my bachelor's degree and returned to one of my previous employers. However, I'm planning to transfer into the financial industry because I'm interested in pursuing my CMA designation.

My advice for employers, career centres and schools

I feel so limited in terms of which positions I can apply for. Even if I apply for entry-level positions, some demand exceptional skill sets; however, if there was a room for potential candidates to be groomed, that would be even better and encourage for students like myself to apply more often.

My recommendations for students

Everyone is a bright minded individual, and I bet any one else is far smarter and more agile than me. I encourage you to keep applying and remember to use your work relationships to your advantage. I found that using networking skills is far more effective than randomly applying online.

Maple syrup and cinnamon bring out the sweet side of root vegetables

for more, visit
rosereisman.com

Baked root vegetables are a real comfort side dish during the colder months. Use other varieties of your favourite vegetables such as turnips or rutabagas. You may need to add a little more maple syrup since these vegetables tend to be less sweet.

1. Preheat the oven to 425 F. Line 2 baking sheets with foil and lightly coat with cooking spray.

2. Arrange the sweet potatoes, potatoes, squash, onion, parsnips and beets in a single layer on the lined baking sheets. Lightly coat with cooking spray. Bake in the centre of the oven for about 25 to 30 minutes, turning after 20 minutes or just until browned and tender. If the trays are on separate racks, switch their positions halfway through the cooking time. Bake the beets an extra 10 minutes, or until fork tender. Place the vegetables on a large serving platter.

3. To make the dressing, whisk together the olive oil, vinegar, maple syrup and cinnamon in a small bowl. Pour the dressing over the roasted vegetables. Garnish with parsley and serve.

4. Working in batches, transfer the vegetables to a blender and purée until smooth. For each batch, pour in a bit of the broth to help puree.

Joel Powell didn't set out to be a dentist, much less a highly qualified surgical specialist. Originally from New Glasgow, N.S., Powell studied computer science at Dalhousie University.

"When I was a kid, the idea of being a dentist seemed cool, but I didn't care too much for biology and chemistry," he says. "Math, physics and computers came much more easily to me, so that's what I studied initially."

Unable to shake his childhood fascination, Powell began to sit in and observe both his family dentist and dentistry students at Dalhousie. No longer able to resist the temptation, he enrolled into the dentistry program before he completed his undergraduate degree. For the next 13 years, he studied, trained, interned and

Getting warmer: NHL budges on revenue

NHL commissioner Gary Bettman, right, leaves with assistant commissioner Bill Daly after collective bargaining talks on Tuesday in Toronto. The NHL has presented a new offer to the players. CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Let the serious negotiations begin.

After more than a month with no new offers being tabled in collective bargaining talks, the NHL breathed new life into the process Tuesday with a proposal that could kick-start some significant discussions.

It calls for a 50-50 split of revenues between owners and players and includes a deferred salary plan designed to ensure that players would receive all the money they've been promised in existing contracts. On top of that, the deal was drawn up with an eye to starting a full 82-game regular season Nov. 2. "We have about nine or 10 days to get this all ... signed, sealed and delivered," said commissioner Gary Bettman, who called the proposed deal "long-term."

A lot will need to be accomplished over that period. However, the unexpected proposal offered fans the first real hint of hope since the lockout began Sept. 15.

Donald Fehr, the NHLPA's executive director, spent Tuesday afternoon reviewing the lengthy document and held an evening conference call with about 60 players. His initial reaction to the offer was that it could provide something to work with.

It wasn't immediately clear how willing the league is to negotiate off its latest offer. The NHL's previous proposal called for the players' revenue share to fall to 47 per cent and tabled a number of restrictive rules governing contracts.

According to a source, the only one that remains in Tuesday's proposal is a maximum contract length of five years.

Soccer. National team chased from World Cup qualifying in debacle in Honduras

Canada's World Cup dreams were snuffed out in brutal fashion Tuesday as Honduras put them to the sword 8-1 in a do-or-die qualifying match.

It's a bitter pill to swallow for a Canadian team that went into the match controlling its fate with an unwavering belief that it deserved to move on. That is until Tuesday, when the wheels came off the Canadian bus in a shocking display.

Canada entered the hostile confines of a sold-out Estadio Olímpico Metropolitano in San Pedro Sula knowing that a tie or win would be enough to move on to the final round of qualifying in the CONCACAF region, which covers North and Central America and the Caribbean. The Hondurans, looking to please their fans on an extended national holiday, needed a win.

Asked if the moment had got to his team, Canadian coach Stephen Hart offered a one-word answer — "Yes."

"You're supposed to go down all guns blazing, you're supposed to fight," he added. "You're supposed to die out there."

"We were horrible.... It's disturbing to me that the team fell apart."

It was Canada's worst loss since an 8-0 drubbing in Mexico in 1993.

"We pretty much embarrassed ourselves," said midfielder Julian de Guzman.

"We were terrible.... It's an absolute low for us," added captain Kevin McKenna.

Honduras' speed and clinical finishing — combined with Canada's clown-like defending — ended the suspense early, racking up a 4-0 after just 32 minutes. It looked easy against a Canadian side that wasn't up to the challenge.

"We let in goals early and fell apart. Mentally and physically," said Hart.

Jerry Bengston and Carlo Costly each scored three goals for Honduras, while Mario Martinez added two of his own.

Substitute Iain Hume scored a consolation goal off a nice free kick in the 76th minute before Bengston restored the six-goal cushion six minutes later as the Canadian defence crumbled around him. Costly then scored on an 88th-minute header to complete the rout.

Let the Elantra excite you

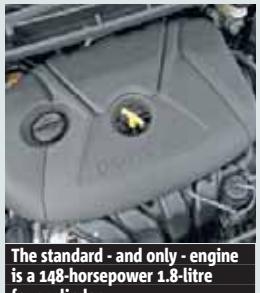

ALL PHOTOS WHEELBASE

5 DRIVE

2013 Hyundai Elantra GT

- Type. Four door, front wheel drive, compact hatchback.
- Engine (hp). 1.8-litre DOHC I4 (148).
- Transmissions. Six-speed manual, six-speed automatic (optional).
- Base Price (incl. destination). $20,650

The standard - and only - engine is a 148-horsepower 1.8-litre four-cylinder.

Transmission

The GT as well as the rest of the Elantra trio, operates with a 1.8-litre four-cylinder engine that produces 148 horsepower and 131 pound-feet of torque. The peppy mill is rated at 7.2 l/100 km in the city and 4.9 highway when connected to a six-speed manual transmission, and 7.3/5.0 with optional six-speed automatic.

Styling

An added bonus is the GT's slippery-shaped design that rivals the Coupe's, although all three Elantras are handsome rigs in their own way. The GT's Hyundai Veloster-style open-mouth grille/air intake resembles the Coupe's, with both body styles eschewing the sedan's more conservative schnoz.

Fuel economy

Hyundai claims the GT possesses about a 720-kilometre maximum range, which is as much a function of gas-tank size as it is fuel economy. It also doesn't hurt that, at a relatively light 1,265 kilograms, the GT is 70-90 kilograms lighter than its primary rivals.

Review. New GT isn't as big as the Touring but it speaks our kind of language: design language

MALCOLM GUNN
Wheelbase Media

If a hatchback is on your radar, the Hyundai Elantra GT with its "Fluidic Sculpture" design language might prove to be the right thirst-quencher.

In a world gone mad for small, fuel-efficient cars – not surprising given today's pump prices – Hyundai's compact line-up attempts to cover the bases. If your search involves acquiring a vehicle with purposeful practicality, the new Elantra GT might fill the bill just as easily as you can fill its flexible-stowage area.

The GT fills the void left by the departing Elantra Touring model, but not in the most direct way. Although neatly styled, the Touring was first and foremost a wagon, while the more Hyundai has become as proficient at tidy interior design as it has at the outside details.

It's shorter than the Elantra Touring it replaces, but with this kind of high style it's unlikely that anyone will miss the space.

Taking the test: Honda offers up some real-world hybrid Insight AutoKnow. Today's crossbreeds appear good on paper, but how do they handle the open road?

JOE
Wheelbase Media

It's widely known that hybrid vehicles shine brightest in high-density stop-and-go traffic, achieving in the process low fuel consumption and ultra-low greenhouse-gas emissions. That's because the built-in electric motor helps the gas engine get the car rolling.

But how are they on the open road? More to the point, how do they fare in wide-ranging road traffic? Can they cover great distances in comfort yet deliver a decent ride without working their little hybrid hearts into a state of mechanical coronary?

In an attempt to answer the bigger questions of the universe, Honda surrendered a new-generation Insight hybrid for an outing through the rugged Precambrian shield running alongside Lake Superior, which borders Michigan. The average speed was about 100 km/h over 10 hours with frequent scenic stops along the way; the road climbs and drops majestically, all the while snaking along Superior's craggy shores.

Spirited driving isn't the point of the Insight and so, responsibly, we steadfastly minded speed limits and drove in as smooth a manner as possible with lightly applied throttle inputs to probe its higher-speed fuel economy. The gasoline/electric drive system, though able to deliver near-brisk performance if required, is in its element when the driver strives for economy and smoothness.

The Insight actually assists in this effort through in-dash displays that show fuel consumption; when it's running on gas, electric or both; and when the on-board batteries are being re-charged, capturing the Insight's rolling (kinetic) energy through "regenerative" braking, and when decelerating.

Another readout displays a five-branch tree that rates the green-ness of the drive: the branches disappear or come back based on how aggressively the throttle is used. Push a little harder and the light that bathes the instrument panel blends to blue from green, returning to green when pressure eases. It's subtle and quietly keeps one mindful.

The 1.3-litre (that's just 79.3 cubic inches) four-cylinder gas engine has a single overhead camshaft, two valves per cylinder and variable valve timing. Driving the front wheels, it's small by conventional reckoning, but mated to Honda's fifth-generation Integrated Motor Assist (IMA) hybrid system, it carries the freight, operating quietly, seamlessly and effortlessly.

Sitting silently at the stoplights with the gas engine automatically shut down, you wouldn't think the Insight would win any drag races, but it does acquit itself well against other vehicles in its class. Acceleration can approach brisk when the throttle is pressed deep into the pile carpet mats, useful for passing maneuvers and when accelerating onto fast-moving freeways, but not so much for extending fuel economy.

Weight is typically the enemy of fuel economy, so it's with some irony that the IMA adds almost 25 kilograms over a comparably equipped Civic, yet gives superior fuel economy, which speaks well of the system's efficiency. Throughout the drive, fuel economy hovered mostly around the 5.0-l/100-km mark. After a while, it becomes almost obsessive to see how low you can drive the consumption, and for how long at a time.

The interior accommodates four average-sized adults. The front bucket seats are firm and began to feel that way after several hours. The dash and controls are well placed and functional though overhead glare on the spade-shaped cover at the top of the instrument panel was visible several times throughout the drive. The thick rear pillars that taper back to the tidy aerodynamic rear end make backing up an exercise in neck-craning, and the view through the rear-view mirror is restricted.

With the back seats folded flat, the seemingly small hatchback swallows a surprising amount of cargo, an essential quality for out-of-city driving. With the rear doors open and the hatch lid raised, loading large and bulky items is easy.

When the first-generation Insight beat all other hybrid-powered vehicles to market more than a decade ago, it launched a terrific idea, but in a body style that while looking sleek and futuristic, didn't exactly set the world

The Insight looks like a normal compact car because it is, and then some. It just adds an electric helper motor to assist accelerating the vehicle. ALL IMAGES WHEELBASE

As you can see, the current Insight has tons of room in the back.

The dash encourages conservation over a lead foot.

ablaze. As two-seater coupe, it had limited cargo space and didn't fit many lifestyles.

Starting at about $22,000, the Insight offers all the functionality and then some of a compact sedan and depending on the view, in a somewhat futuristic design. The front disc/rear drum brakes are also unlike the original Insight's in that they have excellent pedal feel and are very easily modulated.

And to answer the obvious question many will ask: over the entire 800 kilometres, not once did a string of cars pile up behind us waiting to pass.

Under the hood

The Insight can't run on electric power alone like the Toyota Prius can.

Second Gear. 2004 to 2009 Quest minivan

For the 2004 model year, the Quest minivan hit the market with dual sliding doors, generous cargo capacities, and an even more unique, distinctive design than its predecessor.

Features included tire pressure monitoring, alloy wheels, power heated leather seats, a power tailgate, sunroof, heated mirrors, Bose audio, a self-dimming rearview mirror, power accessories, power-adjustable pedals and more.

Common Issues

Listen to the engine idle, after confirming its oil level and condition are satisfactory. Rattling sounds at idle or lower revs may be indicative of a timing-chain problem that's expensive to fix. This seemed to affect 2004 models, mostly.

Timing chains generally don't require maintenance as long as oil change schedules are strictly adhered to. Be sure that's been the case for the Quest you're considering. Some owners have reported premature wear of consumable parts, like brakes, so note that a 'shimmying' sensation in the front end during braking indicates a brake job is likely in your Quest's future. Power tailgate and power sliding door mechanism failure may be other issues, alongside a water-leak that could be seen by moisture in the headliner.

ALL PHOTOS HANDOUT

What Owners Like

↑ Typically, Quest's styling, unique design, sky-view roof system and upscale interior looks are highly rated by owners. Spaciousness, handling and overall comfort are also mentioned.

What Owners Dislike

⬇ Owner complaints deal with flimsy interior trim, poorly thought-out cupholder layout, limited third-row space and poorer-than-expected mileage.

Engine

Yellow circle icon. All models come equipped with a 3.5 litre V6 with 240 horsepower driving the front wheels through an automatic transmission.

Verdict

To maximize the likelihood of reliable long-term operation, skip used Quest models with the sunroof, power sliding doors and power tailgate where possible.

A glimpse into the near future: Cars that will be catching the eye in 2014

Let the battle begin.

Fuel efficiency and technology will be the focus as automakers square off with their new, improved designs

TODD
Wheelbase Media

At the same time the curtain is rising on a tech-savvy and unpredictable 2013 new-car market, automakers are continuing to leak some sneak peaks into what we can expect when the 2014 turf war begins a year from now.

The popular design trends for the 2014 models won't be drastically different from what manufacturers rolled into showrooms for 2013, but with dozens of all-new 2014 entries on the way from Acura, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Mercedes-Benz, Porsche, Volkswagen and others – along with some edgy redesigns and updates coming from many other top automakers – 2014 should again be a competitive year in an improving North American market. Not unlike the 2013 battle plan for most manufacturers, fuel efficiency, technology and sleek styling will highlight the race for 2014 sales supremacy.

Volatile gas prices, eco-consciousness and looming minimum fuel-economy standards from the U.S. government will keep efficiency technology as the top priority for buyers and builders in 2014. Legislation was signed in the U.S. in August that requires automakers to meet a fuel efficiency standard of 35.5 mpg (6.6 l/100 km) by 2016 for its cars and light trucks. Of course the effect will be felt here in Canada.

"Fuel mileage is a full consideration point for most car buyers in most segments," said Chris Woodyard, automotive news analyst for daily newspaper USA Today. "All the manufacturers are trying to reach those new standards the fastest." Efficiency initiatives have certainly kept engineers busy with their 2014 designs.

A growing emphasis on the gas/electric hybrid and plug-in hybrid markets will be worth watching as competition grows with every model year. Even Porsche is introducing the 918 Spyder plug-in, trying to invade this market with its pricey – as in $850,000 – high-performance entry. The BMW 1-Series Compact, the Mazda 6 and the Infiniti Compact are three examples of manufacturers thinking smaller and lighter in 2014, building with more aluminum to improve fuel mileage through lighter vehicles.

Other popular models such as the Nissan Sentra and Ford Mustang will offer a smaller engine option as another choice for better fuel efficiency. Vehicles equipped with the popular turbochargers and gasoline direct injection fuel systems (the 2014 Chevrolet Corvette, for one) will also be prominent in showrooms.

"And while gas prices have been jumping around, I think auto buyers have become conditioned to think that $5 (per gallon) gas is not an impossibility," Woodyard said. "And if you're an automaker, you are desperately trying to find a way to respond to that."

In fact, prices in California really shot past $5 a U.S. gallon while many Canadians have seen $1.40 a litre and higher. So while going farther on less gas will continue to be the primary battle focus, there will be other focuses. "No doubt, technology is really where the action is," Woodyard said. "With the rise of the 'Gen X' generation and the 'Gen Y' generation, they don't care that much about cars, but they care a lot about cell phones and cell-phone technology, so automakers are forced to try and emulate that, try to pick up on that theme."

And the manufacturers are sparing no means to that end, installing all the gadgetry a vehicle can offer, while keeping an eye on safety improvements through fewer distractions and less fidgeting with hands-on display screens. Cadillac offered its CUE navigation and entertainment system on select 2012 and 2013 models, but expect wider access to this groundbreaking technology option in 2014.

Similar to the Kinect gaming system from Xbox, CUE recognizes and responds to hand gestures and body movements to help drivers keep their eyes on the road when performing certain requests. Perhaps a wink of the eye will turn the radio on, a head tilt can control the volume, a tap on the steering wheel changes the channel, just to name some basics. Voice-activated systems will also be prevalent in the 2014 models, as in-car technology follows the lead of the Flurry-type interactive systems used in iPhone and Droid cell phones.

"That kind of technology is going to be a slam dunk to migrate over to cars," said Woodyard, warning that driver adaptation to these advanced systems will likely create some frustration. "This is the kind of thing that can filter down to other cars. When somebody is on the cutting-edge forefront of something, everybody else wants it."

In addition to efficiency and technology improvements, manufacturers are also putting a heavy emphasis on interior and exterior styling when the 2014 models take centre stage at the Los Angeles, Calif., and Detroit, Mich., auto shows in the coming months. Woodyard said the most recognizable styling trend for the 2014 models is a return to the sloped-back look, not unlike the new Ford Fusion that stretches the roof back to the trunk.

The sloped-back design was resurrected, at least in part, by a series of cars such as the Audi A7 and Volkswagen CC. The 2014 Impala is creating much buzz after a fresh full redesign that includes this sophisticated styling as General Motors tries to re-establish relevance in the full-size sedan market, occupied by stalwarts such as the Ford Taurus, Chrysler 300 and Dodge Charger.

An improving automotive market in North America, fresh designs, hip technology and new entries in the most competitive market segments should make 2014 a trend-setting model year.

"It's all incremental but there are definitely changes taking place," Woodyard said. "If the automaker still has money, if they are not having to push (redesigns) off because they went broke, they will all stay on schedule . . . And if they really want to be bold they will try something completely new, knowing that it could be a huge hit or a huge flop. These will turn up in the auto shows, along with plenty of surprises."

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

The more you do for friends and work colleagues today, the more they will do for you later on — and you will come out ahead of the game. Is that selfish? Maybe. But it's a higher kind of selfishness.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Your task today is to focus all your attention and all your energy in a single direction. Don't let your concentration stray for even a moment. You can achieve something extraordinary, but you've got to be single-minded.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Good things are going to happen over the next two or three days. Anything of a creative, romantic or artistic nature is under excellent stars at the moment. So, don't hold back. Give it all you've got.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

This is the ideal time to let partners and loved ones know how much you care for them. The Sun in the domestic area of your chart makes it easy for you to reveal your innermost thoughts and feelings.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Get out into the world and have a good time. Meet as many interesting new people as you possibly can. Don't worry about your work. It will still be there waiting for you when you get back — if you get back!

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You want to buy yourself lots of pretty things, no matter how much they cost. But can you afford it? Don't spend up to your credit limit now and spend the rest of the year living on bread and water.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Make the most of the opportunities that come your way over the next few days. If you don't, you will hate yourself for being too slow and indecisive. Find the courage to take the kind of risks most people avoid.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You need to decide what is going to be your number one aim — and you need to get after it today and every day until you have reached your ultimate goal. What moves you? What inspires you?

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

The more you work with those who share your aims and ideals, the more of a positive effect you will have on the world around you — and the more fun you will have.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You are about to be tested and challenged like never before. Do you have what it takes to confront your inner demons? Do you have the strength to battle them and overcome them? Of course you do.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You have got to stand up for what you believe. Unless you are clear in your own mind what it is that's worth fighting for, you won't be able to persuade others to fight for it too. They need you to lead.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

There seems to be a lot of deception and trickery going on at the moment, so it will pay you to be on your guard. Anyone who promises you the world for a small investment is either mad or bad — or both.
